Have a voice, become a public Governor

Derbyshire Community Health Services NHS Foundation Trust is one of the largest providers of specialist community health services in the country, providing in the region of 4,000 patient contacts each day and serving a population of over one million people in Derbyshire and Derby.

We now employ around 4,300 staff, caring for patients in 11 community hospitals and more than 30 health centres, as well as in clinics, GP practices, schools, care homes and, increasingly, in people's own homes.

The Trust works with staff, members of the public, service users and carers to improve our services where they are needed most. To do this, we have a Council of Governors, which is made up of both elected and appointed Governors. We are seeking enthusiastic members with a passion for the health care services we provide to nominate themselves for election to the Council of Governors. We are looking for 12 new public Governors.

So what is a Governor?

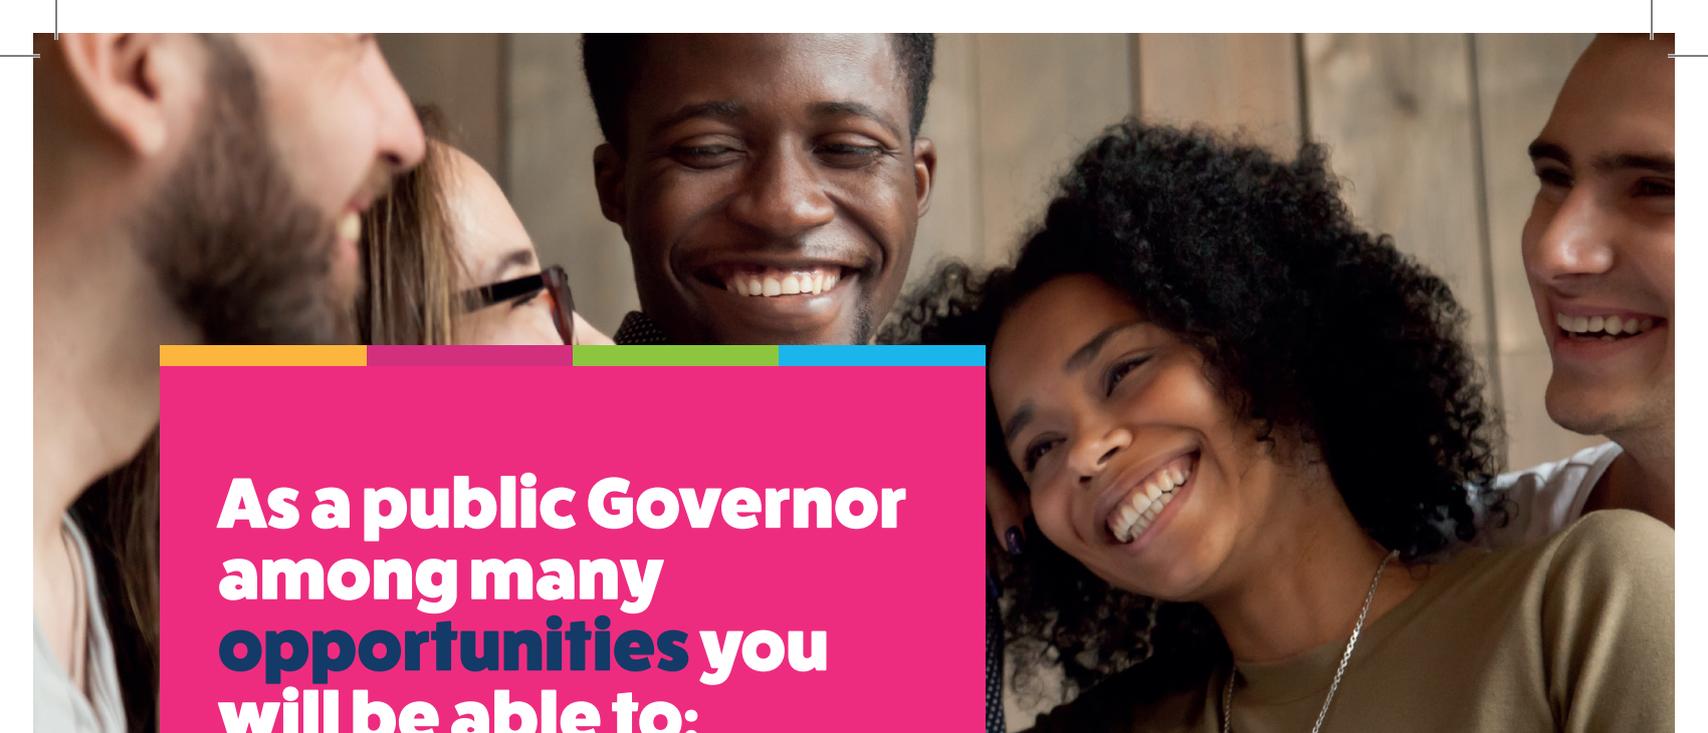

Governors play a really important role in the Trust. Governors give our members a voice by listening to their views to shape and improve the services we provide. Governors are elected to the role by members of DCHS for a period of up to three years. Although you don't get paid to be a Governor, you'll be able to claim money back for travelling costs and other reasonable expenses when attending meetings or events on behalf of the Trust.

Our 32-strong council includes public and staff Governors who are elected from the membership of our organisation, which currently stands at more than 12,000. They are all representatives of our local community and advise us how best to meet the needs of patients, families and carers. There are 18 public Governors, 10 staff Governors, three from our partner organisations and our Lead Governor.

Quality at the heart of our care

At DCHS we put the quality of our patient care at the heart of everything we do. We achieve this by getting the basics right, acting with compassion and respect, by making a difference, by valuing and developing teamwork and by valuing everyone's contribution, including yours.

As a public Governor among many opportunities you will be able to:

- Represent the population you serve
- Talk, listen to and represent our members and feed back to them
- Shape the way we engage with our members
- Meet with our council of Governors at least six times a year
- Talk to our executive and non-executive directors
- Join other activities and events
- Hold the non-executive directors to account for the performance of the organisation
- Have a say in future appointments of non-executive directors
- Influence the way the Trust delivers services by contributing to our forward plan
- Receive the Trust's annual accounts, auditor's reports and annual review document
- Be consulted and contribute to the plans of the organisation, such as the Annual Plan.

We will help you to work out what support you need to fulfil your role as Governor and will provide training to enable you to do this.

Guiding you through

If you think you would like to become a Governor, you will need to write a statement about yourself (250 words) that tells people why they should vote for you, which will make up part of your nomination form.

You might find it useful to ask yourself the following questions when writing your election statement:

- Have I been to meetings at the Trust before?
- Am I good at speaking for myself and other people?
- Do I like talking to other people and asking questions?
